News For The Employees of Data General

December 30, 1983

Happy New Year
  Monday, January 2, is the first Data General paid holiday of 1984.

WPI Course Registration January 6

Worcester Polytechnic Institute (WPI) is offering a Computer Science graduate course at Data General for the spring semester. The course, Compiler Construction (CS544), will meet Wednesdays from 5:30 p.m. to 8:30 p.m. in Westboro Guest Marketing's Room A in the 'F' module.

Registration will be held in the Engineering Training classroom in Westboro on January 6 from 1 p.m. to 3 p.m. Classes begin Wednesday, February 1 and will continue for 14 weeks.

Publications Group Expands Services

In an effort to meet growing demand in the area of computer-generated slide production, Corporate Publications has expanded its Presentation Graphics Services (PGS) capabilities.

Shuttle Bound From Back Lobby
  Beginning Tuesday, January 3, both passenger and mail shuttle service to Westboro from all locations including Southboro, Milford, Portsmouth and Westbrook, will run only to and from the rear (14B) lobby.

This recent expansion involves the purchase of the AGX 200, a powerful and cost effective computer-based slide system. This system allows for greater flexibility and timely turn-around in the creation of 35mm slides, color overhead transparencies, and color/B&W hardcopy.

Benefits include an available spectrum of 4,096 colors. Multi-tasking allows the operator to create slides while simultaneously printing out hardcopy for review or handout purposes. In addition, existing conventional photography can be combined with computer-generated slides.

It is projected that a central slide production facility will result in a 50% cost-savings to the company.

Presentation Graphics Services was developed in response to a growing demand for high-quality, professional presentation materials at Data General. Chuck Veit reports to Walter Volz in Corporate Publications Production as a highly skilled artist specializing in computer-aided design (CAD) presentations. Chuck is prepared to assist customers in the creation of symbols, logos or illustrations to effectively communicate their message.

To discuss a future slide presentation, contact Chuck at extension 3566 ("35mm").

Corporate Temporary Services - How to Apply

Corporate Temporary Services (CTS), a Data General program designed to provide clerical and secretarial support to Westboro, Southboro, and Milford, is available to departments in need of temporary assistance.

Those wishing to apply are asked to follow these procedures:
1. Fill out a form. Forms are available by calling CTS Manager Diana Carter at extension 4990, or in the CTS office, MS A237 in Westboro.
2. Submit the completed form. Appropriate signatures (two levels of management and vice president of the respective department) must be obtained.

3. Return the form to the CTS office. A response, including the name of the person assigned and date of arrival, will be made to the requestioner when the form is received.

Diana and Interviewer Jeanne Malecki are asking employees to refer, from outside the company, people with secretarial or word processing skills for possible participation in the program.

CTS recruits and trains people for temporary staffing on both a full- and part-time basis to assist when help is needed due to vacations, leaves of absence, illness, or short-term special projects.

Westbrook College Offers 10 Scholarships

Westbrook College in Portland, Maine is entering its second year of awarding up to ten $1000 scholarships to children and other dependents of Data General employees.

This special financial aid program began in September 1983. George Menezes, the son of George Menezes, Information Management Product Cost manager at Data General-Westbrook, received the first $1000 scholarship and is currently enrolled at Westbrook College.

Scholarships will be awarded to students who complete the appropriate college application procedure and are accepted as first-time, full-time Day Division students in the Computer Information Systems (CIS) program in either the associate or the baccalaureate degree curriculum. The CIS program utilizes an ECLIPSE MV/6000 computer system given to Westbrook College by Data General in 1982.

The decision to award the scholarships will be made by a committee in the college's Financial Aid Office based on: high school record; written recommendations from teachers or guidance counselors; and the potential for academic success at Westbrook College.

The scholarships will be renewable, provided the student maintains a 3.0 (B) grade point average. The college will work with scholarship recipients to package additional financial aid whenever financial need has been determined through the College Scholarship Services traditional procedures.

The scholarship will continue as long as the parent or spouse is employed at Data General. If a grant is terminated, the college will make every effort to replace the award with other sources of funding, so that the student may continue to complete the degree program successfully.

All students interested in this program for September 1984 must complete the application processes for admission and financial aid no later than May 1, 1984. Awards may be made prior to that date, and the college will be unable to guarantee the availability of this special scholarship program after that time.

Admission, scholarship and financial aid applications may be obtained by writing to: Director, Admissions, Westbrook College, Portland, Maine 04103.

Joyce DeLoca is welcomed to Marketing and Sales Information Systems (MSIS) as a programmer analyst, reporting to Project Manager Stuart Shulman. Joyce is responsible for programming, testing, and talking to users in the development support of systems.

Joyce comes to Data General from Bose Corporation. Joyce holds an MBA in management information systems from Boston University, and a BS from Bryant College.

He Has Been 'Calling' For 20 Years

John Thompson spends many nights calling square dances in church halls and schools throughout New England.

It's relaxing, good exercise, and brings smiles to the faces of all who respond to a do-si-do or an allemande left says Data General's John Thompson who has been calling square dances for the past 20 years.

As manager of Corporate PRIDE Circle Administration and Quality Training, a position which requires traveling to worldwide Manufacturing facilities, John has begun to limit his calling engagements to within a 200 mile radius.

"Everybody needs a tranquilizer, a way to unwind and relax after a hectic day at work, and my diversion is calling square dances," John said. "It lets me work off tension and frustration and provides the same for those dancing, when I observe the smiling faces on all the dancers."

John said it all started in 1963 when his wife signed up for a square dancing club in Acton, their home town. John admits he went reluctantly but found that he enjoyed himself once he got involved.

"I picked up the calls from dances I attended and from books," he said. John practiced routines in the shower, while driving, and on tolerant friends. Two years later he was raring to go and searched for a town that did not have a square dance club, which turned out to be Natick.

John persuaded the town to sponsor square dance classes and his calling career went into high gear. He derives much satisfaction from having a group of novices twirling within minutes. Encouraging others to try square dancing, John said, "All you have to know is your right from your left and whether you're a girl or a boy."

Many Data General employees saw John in action as he led groups at the PRIDE Circle Conference in Woodstock last May and at the September outing at Crotched Mountain in Francestown, New Hampshire.

John enjoys his role as "a catalyst in making the world a little happier by dancing and singing".

Birthday Roundtable

A Birthday Roundtable for employees in Materials and Manufacturing Control who celebrate birthdays in November and December took place last week. The informal meeting was held to give employees an opportunity to discuss areas of interest with Director Bruce Neff.

"I feel that this type of interaction is very crucial and that this program can be very beneficial to both the individual and to the department as a whole," said Bruce. Invited to the gathering were Lillian Alves, Anne Beckstrom, Brian Dufresne, Ruth Evans, Fred Oak, Pat Olson, Sylvia Quinn, Jack Reeve, and Toni Souza.

Personnel representative Joe Lewis attended to discuss Personnel-related questions.

Milford

People

In Human Resources...

Carl Lopes joins Data General as a senior Personnel representative serving employees within Field Engineering (FE) Logistics. He reports to FE Logistics Personnel Manager Barry Davis. Carl is responsible for all Personnel services to Manufacturing Engineering, Materials and Distribution groups in Logistics as well as several Milford based field marketing operation areas.

Before joining Data General, Carl was employed by Ludlow Savings Bank, and prior to that, Milton Bradley Company. Carl holds an MBA in human resources/management from University of Massachusetts at Amherst and a BA from Wagner College, New York.

MSTs Go Christmas Caroling

Successfully combining learning with sharing, 25 members of the present Marketing Systems Trainees (MSTs) class spent their last night in Westboro before the holiday break Christmas caroling. They visited the pediatrics ward at the University of Massachusetts Medical Center and the Westboro Nursing Home.

A GENERATION AHEAD, YOUR INVENTORY WON'T BE OUT OF CONTROL.

DATA GENERAL SMALL BUSINESS SYSTEMS.

When you run a small business, controlling your inventory can be a nightmare.

If you carry too much inventory, you lose money.

If you carry too little, you lose customers.

But with a Data General computer, you can benefit from a system that matches inventory to customer demand, for better cash flow.

Data General can also help you manage other aspects of your small business: accounts payable and receivable, payroll, general ledger, and word processing.

EXPANDS WITH YOUR BUSINESS

Unlike so-called "personal" computers, Data General systems have multi-terminal capability. Which means your business won't outgrow your system.

As an added benefit, you can even do word processing and inventory control at the same time.

And business graphics visually chart your business growth.

All this has been developed as the result of years of experience in providing solutions for small and large businesses. Experience that pays off for our customers.

THE WIDEST RANGE OF SOFTWARE

And no personal computer can run the variety of proven software for small businesses that Data General can.

A function of the fact that we have more operating systems: the popular CP/M-86, and MS-DOS, plus our powerful Data General operating systems. And Data General works with its system suppliers to develop more software solutions for specific business problems.

THE WIDEST RANGE OF SERVICE PLANS

Data General has the widest range of service plans tailored to your small business needs, including a 4-hour response time (even faster, if you need it).

And those plans are backed up by over 1,800 field engineers in 140 field offices.

COMPETITIVE PRICES

What's more, Data General systems are affordable. In fact, our pricing is competitive with most of the so-called "personal" computers.

The bottom line: you get more power for the same money.

So, regardless of the size of your business requirements, we have a computer system that meets your needs: our CS Series, or our remarkable new DESKTOP GENERATION.
