Fair Price Amendment Up For Vote At Annual Meeting

Proxy material for Data General's Annual Meeting, to be held Wednesday, January 30 in Boston, was mailed to all stockholders the week of December 17. All employees who own company stock should have received their proxy cards, the proxy statement and the new Annual Report.

This year's Proxy Statement asks stockholders to consider four proposals:

- Elect five directors;
- Approve a fair price amendment;
- Approve an amendment to the Restricted Stock Option Plan to increase the number of shares to seven million from five and a half million; and
- Approve an amendment to the Employee Incentive Stock Option Plan to increase the number of shares to three million from two million.

The Fair Price Amendment is of particular importance this year. It would protect the interests of all stockholders by giving them greater assurance of equal treatment in the event of an attempted takeover of the company. It would deter "two-tiered" offers for the company. Such takeovers occur when:

- 1) An offer is made for a limited number of shares at a price above the then market price in a first-step cash tender offer; and
- 2) The remaining shares are acquired at a later date via a merger offering a lower price or an exchange of securities with a lower value.

Please read carefully the description of the Fair Price Amendment on pages 13-21 of the Proxy Statement you received, including the discussion of "Certain Possible Disadvantages of the Fair Price Amendment" beginning on page 19.

Approval of the Fair Price Amendment would encourage prospective acquirers of the company to negotiate with the Board of Directors, which would be in a position to evaluate the fairness of an offer and study alternatives to protect the interests of the stockholders. The amendment will not make it more difficult for someone offering to buy substantially all shares of the company's common stock at the same price to all investors.

According to President Ed de Castro, "The Board of Directors believes that the adoption of this proposal is in the best interests of all stockholders and we are respectfully seeking your support."

Vote Your Proxy

Data General employees and their families own about 2,696,000 shares of the company, or almost 11 percent of shares outstanding. Their vote is important to the company's future. A 51 percent majority of outstanding shares are required to pass this amendment.

Please study the Proxy Statement and vote by filling out your proxy card, signing and dating it, and returning it in the enclosed return envelope. You may also return the proxy card via internal mail to the Public Affairs department, MS-A235, Westboro.

If you own stock and have not received a Proxy Statement and card, please contact Public Affairs in Westboro immediately (x4700, x4702, direct line (617) 366-0469), or stop by the Public Affairs office in Building 14A to pick up the material.

If you have questions regarding the Fair Price Amendment or any of the other proposals on the Proxy Statement, please contact Brad Stroup, director of Public Affairs.

Bob Johnson Named Marketing Support Director For ISD

Bob Johnson

Bob Johnson has been appointed director of Marketing Support within the Information Systems Division (ISD), reporting to Frank Pinto, divisional director of Marketing for ISD.

Bob will support the field and customers in product announcements, market development, major account and opportunity team programs, and marketing communications.

He comes to Data General after seven years with Wang, where he was most recently director of National Account Market Development, responsible for major opportunity management programs, multinational marketing, and account planning. Prior to Wang, Bob held a variety of sales and marketing positions at Honeywell and General Electric.

Bob holds a BS in industrial management from Purdue University.

Dean Named Director Of Corporate Profit Planning

Mark Dean

Mark Dean has joined Data General as director of Corporate Profit Planning, reporting to Vice President and Corporate Controller Jim Pitts. Mark heads up this department which is responsible for corporate budgeting, forecasting and financial planning, and business analysis functions. Corporate Profit

Planning also acts as the control function for headquarters operations.

Before joining Data General Mark was with Ford Motor Company in Dearborn, Michigan for 14 years. While there he held a series of management positions in financial analysis, product quality analysis, competitive pricing analysis, inventory and material cost analysis and management consulting.

Mark holds an MBA from the University of Chicago and a BA in economics from Swarthmore College.

Social Security Deductions To Increase In 1985

The Social Security (FICA) deduction from employees' paychecks will be higher this year than last. The 1985 tax for employees is 7.05 percent, compared to 6.7 percent last year. In addition, the wage base - the maximum amount of earnings on which Social Security taxes are paid - rose from $37,800 last year to $39,600 this year.

Employees who earn $37,800 or less a year will not notice as big a change in their Social Security deductions as employees in higher income brackets. If your earnings are $15,000 a year, for example, you will pay $52.50 more into Social Security in 1985 than you did last year. If your earnings are $37,800 you will pay $132.30 more into Social Security this year. On earnings of $39,600 or more, the Social Security tax in 1985 will increase by $259.20. This larger increase reflects the higher taxable wage base for 1985.

Although people in higher income brackets pay more in Social Security taxes, they also can count on higher benefits when they are eligible for Social Security. Their monthly checks will be higher because benefit amounts are based on the amount of earnings on which Social Security taxes are paid.

Employers also will pay more into Social Security in 1985 since they match, dollar for dollar, Social Security taxes paid by employees.

DATA GENERAL/One Makes Television Debut Sunday

"Escape from your deskbound PC....Escape with a DATA GENERAL/One portable computer" is the message that will be carried to millions of television viewers in the United States, beginning Sunday when a major advertising campaign is launched.

The 60-second and 30-second series, filmed in London, will be seen Sunday during the American Football Conference championship. The DATA GENERAL/One system advertisements this month will also be seen on CBS, ABC, and NBC network news broadcasts, as well as ABC's "20/20" and "60 Minutes," aired Sundays on CBS.

The advertisements that have been appearing in magazines and newspapers worldwide will continue through March. These include The Wall Street Journal, Business Week, Fortune, Computerworld and Byte, as well as local newspapers.

FE Sixth Annual Conference In San Diego February 4

The Sixth Annual Field Engineering (FE) Excellent Service Award Conference will kick off February 4, 1985 at the Sheraton at Harbor Island in San Diego, California. More than 200 award winners and invited guests are expected to attend.

Highlighting the three-day Pursuit of Excellence conference will be the awards banquet at which the 12 "Superstar Winners" and the top Vice Presidential Award winner will be announced. Bill Bentley, vice president of North American Field Engineering, will host the conference and welcome attendees and guest speakers.

Workshops will be conducted and an Executive Roundtable, featuring Fred Cochrane, vice president of FE Engineering Services, and Tony Nicoletti, vice president of FE Support Services, is also planned.

A Reminder..

Stock Purchase Forms are due in Benefits by January 18.

Seminar On Power Quality Requirements For Computers

Have you ever wondered why your computer system crashes when the lights flicker? Have you ever asked why your terminal "hangs" when someone uses a nearby copying machine?

Field Engineering is conducting a one-day seminar on power quality requirements Wednesday, January 16, at Data General-Woodstock. All interested employees, particularly those involved in the design of power supplies and operation of computer systems, are invited, with prior approval of their managers.

Participating in the seminar will be Ed Gulachenski, principal engineer at New England Power Service Company; Fred Kalbach, former professor of electrical engineering at the University of California, and Chris Meier, branch office specialist and power consultant with Data General.

Included on the agenda are the following:

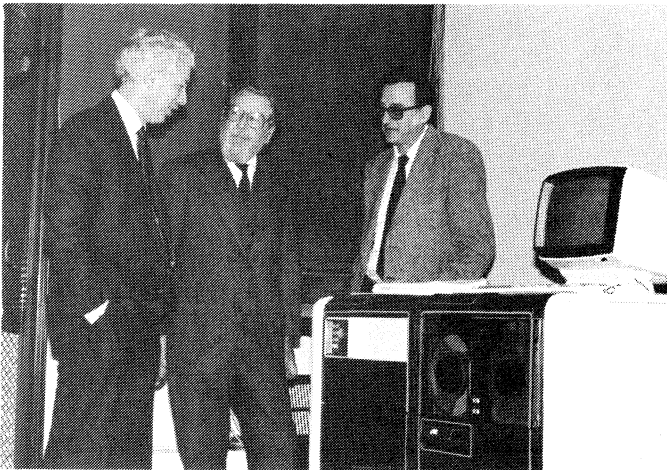

- Origins of power transients
- Power quality requirements for computers
- Building wiring versus computer performance
- Field experience with "bad power"
- Computer room design
- Proper grounding practices

This is the fifth in a series of Field Engineering's technical meetings, designed to provide continuing education to employees so they may continue to keep Data General products and services at the forefront of technology.

Registrations will be accepted until January 11 by contacting Elaine Gately at extension 3840 in Westboro. Employees should include their department cost center number as there is a $100 fee per employee. Contact Seminar Chairman Dennis Symanski at extension 2559 at Milford for further information.

During The Past Five Years

MIT Receives Nearly $900,000 In Donations

Looking over the ECLIPSE MV/4000 computer Data General recently donated to Massachusetts Institute of Technology (MIT) are (left to right) Data General's Michael Schneider, vice president of the Customer Services division; and Professors Richard Adler and Donald Troxel of the Electrical Engineering and Computer Science department at MIT.

Data General recently donated an ECLIPSE MV/4000 computer system, valued at $130,000, to the College of Electrical Engineering and Computer Science at Massachusetts Institute of Technology (MIT). The computer system will be used specifically for two courses: the Digital Systems Laboratory and the Micro-Computer Project Laboratory.

This gift brings Data General's contributions to MIT to almost $900,000 during the past five years.

In 1979 when the Donations Program began at Data General, MIT received $150,000 worth of equipment. The Cambridge university is also scheduled to receive in the near future, an ECLIPSE MV/10000, valued at $370,000, which will be used by its Center for Computational Mechanics in Manufacturing. Another gift, an ECLIPSE MV/10000 computer and tv Desktop systems, valued at more than $240,000, was recently delivered to MIT's Electrical Engineering Laboratory for Information and Decision Systems (LIDS).

During FY '84 Data General donated more than $8.5 million worth of computer equipment to 29 colleges and universities throughout the United States.

Data General Donates Computer Equipment To UNH

Data General has donated more than $500,000 worth of computer equipment to the University of New Hampshire (UNH).

"This gift provides our undergraduate students with valuable state-of-the-art equipment," says Otis Sproul, dean of the University College of Engineering and Physical Sciences.

The donation, which includes an ECLIPSE MV/10000 computer, more than 40 terminals and color graphic displays, tape drives, disc drives, printers, software and software support, will be used in the instruction of undergraduate student courses.

"The donated equipment is a major boon," says Daniel Bergeron, chairman of UNH's department of Computer Sciences. "It provides us with more resources and more computing flexibility in instructing our students."

Jim Barnes, vice president of Peripherals Development, adds, "The gift is part of Data General's overall university donation program. During the past year we have made more than $8.5 million worth of donations to universities throughout the United States. We were pleased to include UNH in our program."

Data General recently broke ground on a product development and light manufacturing facility near the university. The 240,000 square foot facility, scheduled for completion late in 1986, is expected to employ about 1000 people.

"We expect that our proximity to UNH will strengthen our relationship with the university community. We look forward to developing a close working relationship with the entire university community," says Jim.

Those gaily decorated tress, hanging garlands and Santa Clauses that encouraged that holiday feeling should be taken down and tucked away for next year.

WPI Offers Graduate Courses at Marlboro High

Worcester Polytechnic Institute (WPI) is offering computer science and electrical engineering graduate courses at Marlboro High School next month.

Registration will take place Wednesday, January 9 and Thursday, January 10, at WPI's main campus at Olin Hall from 6 to 8 p.m.

For further information call Donna Johnson at WPI, 793-5301. Catalogs are available at Data General's Management and Organizational Development office at MS D134.

Management Degree Program At Lesley College

School of Programs in Management for Business and Industry, Lesley College's accelerated management degree program for working adults, is coming to the Westboro area. The master's degree class is expected to start in February and a bachelor's degree program will begin in March.

Data General employees interested in learning more about the program can attend an information meeting Friday, January 11, 12 to 1 p.m. in the Engineering Training Room, near the main cafeteria.

To be eligible for the undergraduate program, prospective students must have previously earned a minimum of 56 transferable credits from a regionally accredited college or university. After being accepted to the program, some students may be eligible to earn additional credit for life experience if the experiences approximate college course work and the learning can be documented. Classes meet for four hours one night per week for 52 weeks.

To pursue the graduate management program, prospective student must have previously earned an undergraduate degree from a regionally accredited college or university. Classes meet for four hours one night per week for 58 weeks.

Network for Publications Groups Established

Technical editors from Educational Services (ES) Documentation Design have started a professional exchange network among publications groups within Data General. Software Documentation editors from the Systems Development Division joined the ES group to discuss current issues in technical communication at a recent luncheon meeting at the Education Center at 2400 Computer Drive.

Focusing on publications standards, the editors discussed how best to create, develop and revise departmental manuals. On- and off-line editing, creative packaging, lead times for printing, electronic publishing and reference guides were also discussed.

Suellen Medd, who initiated the cross-exchange among publications groups, says members of the (ES) group are attending conferences and workshops, sponsored by the Society of Technical Communication, Northeastern University and other professional groups.

"These efforts are directed at enhancing publications through state-of-the-art communications media - language, format and packaging," says Suellen.

Writers and other interested Data General employees are invited to attend the next meeting which will be held within the next month. For information call Suellen at extension 4063 at Westboro.
